Responsibilities and Areas of Expertise

Andy joined Construction Systems Inc. (CSi) in 1969 when the company was just two years old. During his 52 years of full-time service, Andy held almost every position at the company from warehouse manager to forklift operator, accountant, field superintendent, project manager, vice president, sales leader, and ultimately, executive vice president at the time of his retirement in 2020.

As executive vice president emeritus, Andy consults on special projects including the renovation of downtown theaters and office buildings and medical and banking facilities.

Andy brings a unique combination of talent and experience to the construction process and to CSi clients and employees. During his tenure, Andy supervised hundreds of hourly employees while managing the materials, tools and equipment to service more than 50 projects at a time. His natural curiosity and genuine interest in learning, combined with his deep knowledge of construction techniques, product systems and procedures, enabled him to provide exemplary service to his clients.

Andy was the driving force behind CSi's development of a general trades renovation capability to service facility managers featuring self performance. He also led the development of a proprietary budgeting process, with years of input and thousands of projects, which allows CSi to respond with a highly accurate budget typically within a day, if necessary.
