Construction Systems Inc. Recognized for Outstanding Safety Effort

Bureau of Workers' Compensation, Safety Council of Greater Columbus present three safety awards to CSI

COLUMBUS, Ohio July 23, 2007 – The Bureau of Workers' Compensation and the Safety Council of Greater Columbus recently presented Construction Systems Inc. (CSI) with three safety performance awards – The Achievement Award, The Group Award, and The 100% Award.

“The awards are especially meaningful due to the large volume of projects that CSI completes each year at hundreds of site locations,” said Cathy Blackford, executive director of the Builders Exchange of Central Ohio, which sponsors the Safety Council. “Receiving all three awards during one year is an outstanding achievement and recognizes CSI’s effort in ensuring workplace safety,” Blackford added.

The awards were statistically-based on semi-annual injury and illness reports that companies submit as part of their participation in the Safety Council. The Achievement Award was presented to CSI for having a 25% reduction in injuries and illnesses during the past calendar year. The 100% Award was presented for one year without a lost-time injury or illness. The Group Award was presented to CSI for having the lowest incident rate – a recognition presented to only one company in CSI’s group category.

“The Safety Council of Greater Columbus is the top safety council in the state and we are pleased to be recognized in this way. The awards are further reinforcement for our continued efforts to ensure that our managers and employees create and maintain safe work environments,” said JD Flaherty, Jr., CSI president.

CSI employees participate in OSHA and Working Partners training, the Drug Free Workplace Program with regular testing, and field leaders meetings to discuss safety issues, policies and progress.

Ted Roshon, vice president of Operations and chief safety officer and Denny Bauders, chief financial officer and safety administrator ensure that safety is in the forefront of their business. "We strive to not only meet Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) regulations, we work towards exceeding them. Our employees work hard at safety, it's not just talk," stated Roshon.

About Construction Systems Inc.
